HONOKONG, MARCH 9TH, 1874.

WE have always been impressed with the force of a remark once made by Majorposition of Acting Governor of the Colony after Sir Richard MacDonnell's departure. on his last leave of absence. He said he did not know that he had to come to the Council which in itself was attractive, but unwitting- time previously notified. ly the Lieutenant-Governor set forth in asstriking a light as possible what is undoubtedly the chief defect of our system of Government in Hongkong. Legislative Councils are not as a rule meant to talk about lamps, or in fact any kindred subjects. Such matters British rule is supreme. The Paraces especially mis er, they are ready to promise whatever may the scholarship on the terms offered by the often not of a less useful character. Matters of local administration, and especially those affecting property, are ordinatily considered the province of a town or Municipal Council, during the month ending 28th February, 1874, and it is perhaps not very much less meon- is published in Saturday's Gazette:gruous that the Governor should come down to the Council to speak about water works | London and China, ... than to speak about lamps.

The Go- got grazed. VERNOR and Colonial-Secretary, however, both pressed upon them the necessity for taking steps in the matter, although it was tolerably clear from the tone manifested that, if left alone, they would not for a moment entertain any scheme of so expensive a character as that proposed. It could scarcely fail to occur to any one that it would be very much more desirable that the public should be allowed to manage its own affairs, and might be expected to discover if it were really in want of any such large addition to the Ashantees, who have offered greater resistits water supply as was suggested.

- THE TRUNDLE BED. As I rumminged through the garret, List'ning to the falling rain, As it pattered on the shingles, And against the window pane, Peeping over chests and boxes, Which with dust were thickly spread saw in the farthest corner What was once my trandle bed.
- And I drew it from the recess. Where it had remained so long, Hearing all the while the music .. Of my mother's voice in song-As ahe sung her sweetest accents, What I since have often read-Hush, my dear, lie still und slamber, Holy angels guard thy bed."
- As I listened, recollections That I thought bad been forgot, Came with all the gush of memory, Rushing, thronging to the spot, As I wandered back to childhood, To those merry days of yore, When I knelt heside my mother, By this bed upon the floor.
- Then it was with hands so gently Placed upon my infant bead, That she taught my lips to utter. Carefully the words she said. Never can it be forgotten. -Deep are they in memory graven-" Hallowed be thy name, O Father! Father! Thou who art in Heaven."
- This she taught me, then she told me Of its import great and deep; After which I learned to utter "Now I lay me down to sleep." Then it was with hands unlifted. And in accents soft and mild. Tout my mother asked "Our Father,"
- "Father, do Thou bless our child." Y are have passed, and that dear mother L ug has molded nenth the sod.
- Revels in the home of God, But that scene at Summer twilight Never has from memory fled. And it comes with all its freshuess When I see my trundle bed.
